No, David!

When David Shannon was five years old, he wrote and illustrated his first book. On every page were these words: NO, DAVID! . . . and a picture of David doing things he was not supposed to do. All he hears from his mother as he breaks his mother's rules is "No, David!", "That's enough, David!", and "Settle down!" Children will find his outrageously bad behavior both funny and liberating as they see themselves in him.

Duck on a Bike

One day down on the farm, Duck got a wild idea. "I bet I could ride a bike," he thought. He waddles over to where the boy parked his bike, climbs on and begins to ride. At first he rides slowly and wobbles a lot, but it is fun! Suddenly, a group of kids ride by on their bikes and run into the farmhouse, leaving their bikes outside. Pretty soon, ALL of the animals are riding bikes, just like Duck!

A Bad Case of Stripes

Camilla Cream loves lima beans, but she never eats them. Why? Because the other kids in her school don't like them. Camilla Cream is very worried about what other people think about her, but at the very moment she most wants to fit in, she becomes completely covered in colorful stripes! Worse yet, she seems to change colors to match whatever is happening around her. When the class says the Pledge of Allegiance, she turns red, white, and blue! Instead of blending in, she's standing out.

Bizzy Miss Lizzy

Lizzie is the busiest, buzziest bee in Hivetown! With charm and determination, she longs to impress the Queen by winning a spelling contest, but she studies to the point of exhaustion. When she dozes off in the middle of the competition, the only solution is rest — and her refreshing visit to the local Garden finally teaches Lizzie to stop and smell the flowers, "which...is exactly what bees are supposed to do."
